ISSN 2638-4808

The World Environment Journal (WEJ) was midwifed from the maiden World Environment Day Conference (WEDC) of the Department of Geography and Environmental Science (GES), University of Calabar (Unical), Calabar, Nigeria, held on the 5th of June 2017 as part of the global World Environment Day (WED) celebration. The conference was conceived as a perpetual annual event of GES that would be held between the 1st - 5th of June and will yearly adopt the WED global theme, hence, the theme of the 2017 conference was Connecting people to nature-in the city and on the land from the pole to the equator. Empirically researched papers presented at the conference whose author(s) effect suggested correction within stipulated timeframe are the primary papers published in WEJ first volumes (e. g. Vol. 1.1). Other empirically researched paper that meet the requirement of the global WED celebration theme of the year in focus are published in the following volume (e. g. Vol. 1 .2).

The conference and journal seek to create the required awareness for scholars all over the world in global WED celebration, thus, contributing to trending environmental issues, in their tradition niches (research and publication). Therefore, the journal specifically seeks to provide an appropriate forum for interaction and dissemination of empirical problems and solutions in all fields, but, especially, the field, of Environment and Earth Sciences, Social and Management Sciences. Education and Humanities. WEJ is a peer reviewed journal.
